Aside from the races and the incidental festivities and the parade of Decoration Day, there has been little to chronicle in a social way. The first day of the month of roses fell on Friday, which left only Saturday for weddings. Over in Boston the marriage of Miss Mixter and Randolph Appleton in the Mission Church of St. John the Evangelist occupied fully a large and fashionable circle. A good many New-Yorkers were present, for both the bride and the bridegroom (once captain of the 'Varsity football team) are popular with their friends and acquaintances. The ceremony was very pretty, although the heart-less fashion of having no bridesmaids was followed. The bride wore white satin and looked exceedingly handsome-at least that was the prophecy about her uttered by the New-Yorkers when they started for the scene of the festivities. Another Boston wedding of interest will be that of Miss Elizabeth Sewell and William Lowell Putnam. This occurs next Saturday, the 9th.

From a marrying point of view vesterday was certainly the most important day of the week in town. nters of Narragansett Pier at least may so regard it, for it saw the marriages of Miss Lilian Gwynn and Miss Coffee-two young ladies that have often attracted much notice at that lively Rhode Island De Kay at Calvary Church at 4 p. m., by the Rev. Dr. Satterlee, the rector of the church. She made a pretty, youthful bride. The other Narragansett Pier Miss Gwynn, wedded with L. The best man was Oakley Rhinelander, and the usher were of equally striking quality. The bridal robe was white satin covered with point lace. There was pleasant excitement in Orange, too, yesterday afterwhen Miss Tillinghast was married, to Charles March in St. Mark's Church.

The last brave lady to show her cold calm conempt for the alleged unluckiness of May weddings was Miss Barriet Boeves Burt, daughter of Dr. Burt, of No. 32 East Twenty-eighth-st., who, on Wednesday evening last, became Mrs. Clarence R. Gardner. This was a quiet home wedding with only relatives present, on account of recent family bereavements. There were no bridesmaids, no ushers, and no one won the courtesy title of best man; but the wedding banquet was not dispensed with and the parlors were prettily

An incident of interest at Orange this week wi'l the lawn tennis fete on Thursday. There will be dancing in a tent in the evening, and no end of fun is promised. Among the ladies who thus display their tety to benefit the South Orange Free Library Fund are Mrs. John Wilmerding, Mrs. James R. Cross, and Mrs. Howard White. On Saturday a somewhat similar entertainment will take place here in the city under the auspices of Mrs. J. Hood Wright at Washington The beneficiary this time is the Manhattan Dispensary.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE CHESS CONGRESS. The Committee of Arrangements for the American Chess Congress, to be held in this city next winter, met last night at No. 22 East Seventeenth-st. and reported that the $5,000 to be awarded in prizes had en raised after eighteen months' canvassing. J. Spencer Turner, of this city, and Max Judd, of St. ous, pledge themselves for $600 of this amount-ne tournament will last six weeks, and there will be at least six pairs of players. A book containing a sketch of the tournament and an analysis of the games will be edited by Mr. Steinitz. It will be for subscribers only, and the plates will be destroyed when the edition has been printed. Prominent chess play-ers from all parts of the world have already entered their names for the tournament.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK AT PRINCETON.

Princeton, N. J., June 2 (Special).—The exercises of commencement week at Princeton College will begin on Saturday, June 16, with the reading of the theses by the graduating class of the John C. Green School o Science. The annual Caledonian athletic games will be held in the afternoon, and the glee club concert in the held in the afternoon, and the glee club concert in the evening. On Sunday President McCosh will dealiver his last baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class, and in the evening a sermon will be preached by the President-elect, the Rev. Dr. Francis L. Parton. Monday is given up to the exercises of class day, with the James transferal contest in the evening. "Alumning Dr. and Mrs. McCosh will receive the friends of the college on the same afternoon." Wednesday is commencement day proper, and will be a brilliant day in Princeton's history, commented in the retirement of the venicable President McCosh and the inauguration of his successor, Dr. Patton, with unusual ceremonies.

MURAT HALSTEAD'S VIEWS. OUTLINING THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

-SHERMAN THOUGHT TO BE THE COMING MAN -WRAT OHIO WILL DO AT CHICAGO-A FEW WORDS ABOUT OTHER CAN-

DIDATES. When Cincinnati editors come to New-York, even though they adopt the Granger fashion of crossing Eroadway on a straight line, they cannot escape attention. Murat Halstead, the Editor of "The Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette,", was discovered yesterday meditating on the subject of crossing Broadway in that manner, when a Tribune reporter asked him for his views on the political situation. "Wait until I get across the street," said the editor. or maybe you think it is before the crossing as well as before the nomination that an interview would sound best." Continuing for a moment in a jocular strain, Mr. Halstead remarked that he didn't think ere would be any trouble about agreeing on a nomination at Chicago, as he believed in the theory that the country was full of justices of the peace who would make good Presidents, and that the streets of Chicago would be crowded with available men. "How did Mr. Blaine's letter strike the people of the West ?" asked the reporter.

"Well, it was received with more admiration and regret than any other document that has appear within my recollection. We have been heretofore comparing Mr. Blaine to Henry Clay, and there were a number of reasons for the comparison. The defeats of 1844 and 1884 would alone serve as a text for the politicians who were waiting to draw compariso between the two great careers, and there are many corresponding qualities between Blaine and Clay, but this last letter of Mr. Blaine is a height to which Clay never attained. Mr. Blaine is now confessedly the foremost man of his time in this country, except with the faction who have made malignancy toward him personally a profession. The vast majority of the Demscratic party look upon his present attitude with the highest appreciation. They think an immense sight more of him than they do of Cleveland, so far as personal consideration goes.

OHIO REPUBLICANS FOND OF MR. BLAINE. "The Republicans of Ohio congratulate themselves now especially in the fact that in advocating the candidacy of Senator Sherman they did not have unkind words to say of Mr. Blaine. They regarded the friends of one as the friends of the other. That was the position taken by Governor Feraker, who leads the Ohio delegation, and who will speak for Ohio and Sherman in the Chicago Convention. The delegation is composed of the friends of Mr. Sherman, who are also the friends of Mr. Blaine, and it was the policy of Governor Foraker that made it so. The conditi is a wise and happy one, for which the Republicans

ernor." "How have Mr. Blaine's letters appeared to in the light of the conversations which he had with Waterbury family and connections, Mr. and Mrs. you and Mr. Depew abroad last year?"

of Ohlo have reason most heartly to thank the Gov-

"They are precisely in accord with what he wa saying last summer, with some identical phrases used. He said in August that he was no Tichborne claimant for the Presidency, and that he would take his hat and bow himself out and away from that office for ever, without asking five minutes for consideration, if he could be sure of two conditions, one was that if it could not be imputed to him that he had embarrassed his friends, and the other that he could do it without the discouragement of the Republican party. he could see his way clear absolutely to decline the Presidency without the imputation thrown upon him of disbelieving in its success, then he would do it. the occasion arose in which he felt he could retire without disadvantage to the party and without dis heartening his friends he would eagerly embrace the opportunity to do so. Those who have read his Florence and Paris letters carefully can see that this was the leading thought in both of them. They can see also that it was Cleveland's message, the fatality of the position of the Democratic party that Cleveland has forced them into and the high spirit of the Republican party throughout the country which has permitted Mr. Blaine to retire. Otherwise he would not have felt at liberty to write either letter.

Mr. Blaine is like Bismarck in this that, when he talks to any one whom he at all admits to his confidence he does it with a surprising sweep of candor. He strikes the subject which the average politicians would think it incumbent to avoid and says the whole story right out. In Washington I saw Mr. Mason, Consul at Marseilles, France. Less than a month ago he was driving Mr. Blaine about that seaport place. especially to show him the famous docks. Mr. Mason has been at Marseilles for years. He tells it as a good story on himself that Mr. Blaine was able to pour out a marvellous stream of information about the docks and their history of which Mr. Mason himself knew much less than his guest. Mr. Blaine was then looking better than Mason ever saw him, with bright eyes, elastic step and the enjoyment of a boy

dential nomination-where will it go?" "I do not see how the Convention can reasonably avoid nominating Senator Sherman. He has more than the famous 306 of Grant now. The persistent retirement of Mr. Blaine has given a large n delegates their personal liberty in an unusual degree in this convention and it has established toward Sherman a drift of scattering votes in New-England and the South, and given him a great deal of power in Pennsylvania. If anybody is going to beat that they must show something stronger. It is simply a ques-tion of whether on that basis Sherman is to go on to the nomination or some one else be pushed forward from a minor position of strength. As to Senator Sherman's record. It is the record of the Republican party. The principles of the Republican party have their embodiment in him. The fight is to be on principles. Everybody believes that Sherman would make a strong and dignified and exceptionally useful President. As he is the actual leader in the Senate and has been so long in public position and eminent in service, it would seem the natural thing to nomi-nate him. I think we could elect him if we would anybody. For New-York he has some special recommendations. One is that Mugwumps hate him as cordially as they hate Mr. Blaine. I would be sorry to see the party nominate any one at Chicago whom they didn't hate. So far as I know they hate every one except Cleveland and possibly Gresham. They would hate Gresham if the Republicans should nomi-

"There is one thing about Sherman to be said in this locality. New-York has never recognized the immense service he rendered in the financial crisis of the country in bringing about resumption. It was the biggest act of administrative government since the war, except the nullification of the Constitutional Amendment in the South. However, it has its drawbacks, if I may speak jestingly and yet seriously. I asked a distinguished citizen why Sherman was not popular here. He said that Sherman had funded the debt too low-had raised the credit of the ment too high. In order to be popular in a circles here in New-York one has got to ] for money than Sherman let the Government give. The Republican party in his nomination would win strength with the Germans. That is notably so in Ohio. They are on that question as they were on resumption and in opposition to flat money. of good sense in money matters and have a high estimate of Sherman. If he isn't popular show us greater popularity. I don't know where it is to be

MR. HALSTEAD IS NOT A "CRANK." "But your mind has gone beyond Sherman-sup-pose he is not nominated? Are you a first, last and all the time man, who can see no other thing?"

"No, I think I am no crank—at least not in politics.

Therefore, I do not hesitate to speak freely on that which is beyond. There is an immense discussion going on at Washington over Mr. Depow, whom every one personally likes. It consists of assertions on the one hand that he could carry New-York by an overwhelming majority and statements on the other hand that he cannot carry a number of Northwestern States. The assertion that he can carry New-York is responded to by the Western man with the emphatic declaration that he cannot carry Kansas, which is a powerful way of asserting the projudice of the people against the railroads. It should be taken into the calculations though that Mr. Depew's name will be before the convention and supported by a force that will demand consideration."

CHANCES OF GRESHAM AND HARRISON. " How about Judge Gresham?"

"There is a great deal of Gresham talk in Washington, some of it in unexpected quarters. The pre-valling opinion is that the candidacy of Judge Gresham has been overworked, and that it has been carried on too much in a spirit of amagonism,-too much as a directly host le movement to Mr. Blaine, based on The excessive anx ety and aggression of Gresham's carry in 1884, but in which the conditions are such that he can infallibly carry it That is their great card. that he can infallibly carry it That is their great card. They couple it with the idea that Harrison and Phelps would make a handsome ticket, with this advantage that Phelps has also a State that Blaine didn't carry but he can. It must be admitted that such representations, if they are assumed to be correct, would be likely to have influence in the Convention. Beyond this I haven't studied out the field of battle very closely, but I have found that the Alger boom has assumed more importance since the Paris letter than I had expected it could do. A good many Western politicians have been balancing between Alger and Gresham on the question of their comparative influence in the Northwest. Perhaps this is partly in view of the possible use of the name of one of these gentlemen for Vice-President."

"Are the Republicans West very radical or much disposed to wave the bloody shirt!"

"Are the Republicans West very radical of much disposed to wave the bloody shirt?"

"No; as for myself.? an abused as a radical and I am a conservative person. I only ask the obvious Interpretation and the reasonable execution of the requirements of the Constitution of the United States. I am opposed to the pullification of the Constitution in the interest of the Democratic party. The country is being governed by a minority, and the Democratic party especially is being governed by a pinority. In the recent Alabama Democratic Convention the 83,000 white persons living in the black counties had 126 delegates, and the 260,000 white people living in the white counties had 126 delegates. The 136 delegates represented the black electors who do not vote, just as they do in the electoral college and in Congress. I am opposed to this rule by the bosses of the black belt. If we fight a Republican battle we will win a Republican victory."

GENERAL HARRISON'S STRONG POINTS. ATTORNEY-GENERAL MICHENER TELLS WHY HE

SHOULD BE NOMINATED. Attorney-General L. T. Michener, of Indiana, who has been in New-York for two weeks as the friend and representative of General Harrison, in his candidacy for the Republican Presidential nomination, returned home yesterday. He said before going that he was much gratified with the friendly feeling toward General Harrison which he found displayed here, and felt certain it would be represented by votes at Chicago. Concerning Indiana he said:

"The Kepublicans of Indiana are considering General Harrison and no one else. You doubtless know that the Republicans of our State in township, town, city, county, district and State conventions have indorsed his candidacy. They have chosen a delegation to the National Convention, every member of which is for General Harrison and is not considering the question of a second choice. That delegation cannot represent the sentiment of the Republicans of Indiana without supporting General Harrison, and I speak advisedly when I say that they will do it reselutely, earnestly, persistently, notwithstanding rumors to the contrary put out by the friends of other candidates."

What are the elements of his strength?" "He lives in the pivotal State, the carrying of which is essential to Republican success this year. The Republicans of Indiana are confident that Gen-eral Harrison can carry the State and they have good eason for their belief. He has been five times before the people of the State and has been defeated but In every race be bas made he has led his ticket by from 2,000 to 5,000 votes. He is a resolute fighter and a stanch Republican. Since the birth of the Republican party he has been found in the front of every political battle, and is a brave and skilful leader. In 1862 he stepped out of a lucrative office. to which he had been elected by the people of the State, and volunteered. He soon became a colonel in command of his regiment and participated in the battles about Atlanta, winning high renown as a soldie and cordial praise from General Hooker and others. He rose to the rank of brigadier-general, and is con sidered one of the best soldiers that Indiana sent to He is very strong with the soldier element in our State and has their confidence and respect As a Senator he made a fine reputation. His speeches on the Dakota, pension veto and other questions were strong and put him in the front rank of Senatorial debaters. His record as a Senator is unassailable. "When the financial craze swept over the West General Harrison was one of the few leading Republicans who stood firm, and all during that excitement and when many other able men vacillated, stood firm and resolute in favor of sound financial principles. He has all his life been in favor of the principle of protection and has argued the tariff question in all of his political speeches. All business people of our state have entire confidence in him, and he will draw heavily from that direction if he is our nominee. In a word, he is a man of broad views, good record, spotless character and powerful intellect. The Republicase of Indiana offer him to the party of the Nation, and with him they offer the electoral vote of a State which will be doubtful with any one else. and resolute in favor of sound financial principles

A CRUSH OF DELEGATES AT CHICAGO. AN UNPRECEDENTED NUMBER EXPECTED AT THE

CONVENTION-PASSENGER ACCOMMODATIONS. The attendance at the National Republican Convention in Chicago will be even larger than was antici-Dwight Lawrence, on whose shoulders rests the responsibility of procuring accommodations for the New-York delegates, or most of them at least, came down from Albany last evening and declared to friends at the Fifth Avenue Hotel that the crowd was going to surpass anything in his experience. "I have attended five conventions," he added, "but none of them will equal this in point of interest and attendance."

"Mr. Blaine's last letter, then, does not affect it?" to what the result will be. The greatest problem with me now is how to find suitable accommodations for everybody." He showed a telegram that had just come in from the manager of the Grand Pacific Hotel of Chicago, which the New-York men will occupy largely, stating that every room was taken. Arrangements were completed yesterday with the New-York Central Railroad by the Republican Executive Committee for the sale of first-class excursion tickets from this city and from the principal points of the State to Chicago and return at one-half the usual fare, for the benefit of delegates, alternates and friends attending the Convention. These excursion tickets will be sold for regular trains, excepting the vestibuled New-York and Chicago limited express, from June 14 to June 18, inclusive and will be available for return passage until June 26, inclusive. For the particular accommodation of delegates, a special train will be run over the Central. leaving the Grand Central Station at 10:20 a.m. on PITTSBURG DELEGATES FOR SHERMAN Pittsburg, June 2 (Special).-It is believed that the votes of the six delegates who will represent the Chicago Convention will be cast for John Sherman Chris" L. Magee and William Flinn will represe: the Pittsburg district. Magee says that he is for Sherman and Levi P. Morton, and Flinn is expected vote for Sherman. Congressman "Tom" Bayne and Peter Walters, jr., who will represent the Alleghenv City District, both say they have a preference, which they refuse to make public. George Von Bonnhorst, of the XXIVth District, will probably follow Magee's leadership in the choice of a candidate.

A WEDDING.

Msss Lillian Gwynn, youngest daughter of Nicholas Gwynn, was married to Leonard Mortimer Thorn, Jr. of this city, at her father's residence, No. 40 West Fifty-eighth-st., last evening, at 8 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. John Hall officiated. The ceremony took place ! the front drawing-room, under a bower of plants and palms. The oride was attired in heavy white satin and point lace, with damonds. She were a necklace pearls with a pendant of diamonds, the gift of her nother. Her bouquet was of natural orange blossoms. Little Miss Ada Hancock, niece of the bride, and a grandchild of General W. S. Hancock, was maid of conor and wore a pretty slip of pink silk mull over satin of the same shade. The bridesmaids, Miss Emily Lentilhon, Miss Louise Floyd-Jones, Miss Emily Thorn and Miss Laura Conkling, wore gowns of pink silk and mull, made with Lady Kildare waists. They carried pick roses and wore the same flowers in their confures. They received from the bride gold bangles, on which They received from the bride gold bangles, on which were pearl butterflies. The best man was Oakley Rhinelander. There were six ushers, Fielding R. They received as souvenirs horse-shee searf pins of diamonds and pearls. The pair received many valuable presents, among which were gifts from Mrs. Hancock, the widow of General Hancock. A small reception followed, to which relatives and a few intimate friends were invited. A supper was served by Pinard, and there was music by Lander's orchestra. Mr. and Mrs. Thorn will sail for England on the Gallia pext Wednesday and will remain abroad four months.

AT ODDS WITH THE EMPEROR

BISMARCK HOSTILE TO ROYAL PLANS. THE CHANCELLOR AND THE MINISTRY READY TO RESIGN AT ANY MOMENT-FREDERICK WORSE AFTER HIS TRIP-PERTINENT QUERIES SUGGESTED BY THE HUNGARIAN

PREMIER'S SPEECH.
Copyright; 1888: By the New-York Associated Press. Berlin, June 2 .- No sooner has Emperor Frederick seemed assured of some prolongation of his life than the influences hostile to Prince Bismarck display renewed activity. The conflict between the liberal tendencies of the Emperor and the Chancellor's policy now threatens to end in open rupture. The Emperor is still swayed by the opinion of the Empress. Prince Bismarck had warning of the coming troubles last week in a communication from the Emperor blaming Minister Von Puttkamer for abusing the Government influence at elections. Minister Von Puttkamer offered to resign. Prince Bismarck returned at once, and found the Emperor desirous of reconstructing the Ministry, including the household appointments, and opposed to giving his assent to the Quinquennial Landtag bill. Under the advice of Dr. Friedberg, Minister of Justice, the Emperor signed the bill, at the same time advising Prince Bismarck that he hoped this concession would be followed by reforms in the Ministry. The letter of the Emperor to Minister Von Puttkamer repeated his complaint made to Bismarck. Herr Von Puttkamer has replied by detailing his administration of the Interior Department.

Meantime the Quinquennial law was withheld from promulgation by order of the Emperor, who desired that the law should not appear in the Reichsanzeiger unless accompanied by his letter to Herr Von Puttkamer on the freedom of right to vote. When Prince Bismarck left the Emperor after the last conference on Thursday the crisis appeared to have been settled.

Ministry was to-remain intact and the Quinquennial law was to be promulgated on Monday. day it became known that Prince Bismarck had been consulting with his colleagues on the order of the Em peror for the postponement of the publication of the It was reported that the Emperor had gone so far as to cancel his signature. The report, however, is unconfirmed, but the Ministerial circle fear the

The Progressists rejoice at the prospect of the advent of a Liberal regime. The "Tagbiatt," in an article on the crisis, declares that the people will hail giadly a government by the Hohenzollerns, but not by a Puttkamer, nor even a Bismarck. Besides Herr von Puttkamer, General von Schellendorf has offered to retire, exchanging the War Office for the command of an army corps. The crisis has not yet reached the climax of the resignation of the Ministry, but the situation is grave enough to cause profound uneasing EMPEROR FREDERICK GREATLY FATIGUED.

Owing probably to anxiety, combined with yester-day's fatigues, the Emperor became worse to-day. His fever reappeared, the discharges of pus became copious and the general exhaustion greater. He was able to go out this forenoon, but this evening the doctors forbade his going into the park, seeing that he was greatly fatigued.

The passport regulations on the frontier are already becoming relaxed. The French papers publish me dacious reports of the rigorous application of the regulations. The fact is, instructions have been sent to he frontier to exercise the regulations with modera tion and permit for some time to come, at the dis-cretion of the officials, the free entry of travellers pleading ignorance of the edict. The execution of the regulations proves that the Government's sole ob-ject is to keep out of Alsace-Lorraine that class of trav-ellers who foment agitation for the reunion of the province to France.

A COOL RECEPTION OF GOBLET'S SPEECH statements has been badly received in both the Berlin and Vienna Foreign Offices. If M. Goblet had confined himself to a diplomatic statement of facts Herr Von Tisza would have replied to Herr Apponyi's interpellation of the Lower House of the Hungarian Diet to-day with fuller assurances of friendliness. M. Goblet's thrusts at Hungary and his allusions to the German frontier measures decided the Austro-Hungarian Minister curtly to reaffirm their peaceful intentions toward France. The "North German Gazette" approves the attitude of Premier Von Tisza. The "Post" (semi-official) reminds the French Government of incidents justifying foreigners in their distrust of the power of the Government to protect them against the populace, and asks: "Did the Empire prevent M. Floquet from insulting the late Czar?" "Did the Republic protect King Alfonso from being mobbed in the streets of Paris!" "Does it protect Italian workmen from constant outrages in the south of France or German subjects, unless under the Immediate shelter of German consulates!"

In the Hungarian Assembly only the Extreme Left condemn Herr Von Tisza. They have issued a manifesto wishing success to the Paris Exhibition. After the adjournment Herr Von Tisza is reported to have stated that a European war involving the fate of France would intervene before the Paris Exhibition was opened. Tisza would have replied to Herr Apponyi's inter-

EXAMINATIONS AND PARADES AT WEST POINT West Point, N. Y., June 2.—The examination to-day of the first class in engineering was oral, and that also of the second class in chemistry, mineralogy and geology. The first class had also to undergo a written examination in Spanish, and the fourth class in French and English. The examination in engineering at-tracted a number of visitors and was held in the library. A bust of General Sherman occupied a conspicuous place in the library. General Slocum was cho president, and Dr. Battle secretary of the Board of Visitors. In the evening there was a grand review in honor of the Board of Visitors. The movements were executed with the perfection of military precision.

General and Mrs. Parke afterward held a receptior at their home in honor of the Board. All the officers of the Post were in full-dress uniform, and many iadies in elegant costumes were present. An even ing parade concluded the exercises of the day.

A CATHOLIC PRIEST TURNED PROTESTANT. Monsignor Bonland, the French Catholic priest who wrote a letter to Pope Leo XIII., some time ago. renouncing his allegiance to the Roman Catholic Church, has been pronounced eligible to enter the Protestant Episcopal Church. After the Monsigner wrote his letter to the Pope, he applied to Bishop Potter to be admitted to his Church. As Ronland was only slightly known in Catholic circles in New-York, Bishop Potter did not act hastily in receiving him, but appointed committee to ascertain if he were climble. The rep fully exonerates Bonland from all the charges. Bishop Potter, the Archdeacon said, saw Archbishop Corrigan, and that prelate had nothing to say against Bonland.

A WELL-KNOWN ACTOR DEAD.

BENJAMIN MCGINLEY, AN OLD AND POPULAR PLAYER, DIES OF HEART DISEASE Benjamin McGinley, the popular old actor, was found dead in bed yesterday morning at the hame of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Buckle, at Westchester, N. Y. Death is attributed to heart disease, though he had been suffering for several months from serious throat trouble. Mr. McGinley was born in Philadelphia, in 1832. His parents were well to do, but at the age of seventeen he left home and began life for himself by joining the stock company in Dr. Simpson's Pittsburg Theatre, later known as the Old Drury Theatre, under the management of John Foster. From there young McGinley went with Foster to Cleveland, Ohio, where he remained until he received a more advantageous offer to go to Cincinnati. He became a great favorite at the latter place and could have remained there for life, but he pre-ferred to try his fortunes in Baltimore as utility or understudy in the stock of the old Front Street Theatre.

This was in 1856. His opportunity soon presented itself and he made his first appearance as the "Baron Dangars" in "Monte Cristo." He finally drifted into comedy and was highly successful. During his connection with stock companies Mr. McGinley appeared in the leading roles of all the standard dramas and in all of the comedies of the acting editions as played by Burton, Jefferson, and Burke, ranging from the "American Cousin" to Irish drama. At the opening of the war Mr. McCenley Through loaning money to an unsuccessful circus company he subsequently became interested under the firm name of Meiville, McGinley & Co.'s Great Eastern Circus. He continued in the circus business until 1875, acting variously as clown and manager. During that period he married Miss Carroil, a circus rider, and by her had one child, the daughter now living. Mrs. McGinley died in the early seventies. Upon leaving circus life, Mr. McGinley resumed his old profession and appeared with Lester Wallack in "Rossedale," Dion Boucicault, and with McKee Rankin in the "Danites." In 1865 he began starring in "Deacon Crankett" and "A Square Man," in which parts he appeared under the management of J. M. Hill, during the seasons of '81 and '82, and '82 and '83. He is better known to the public, however, as the original Tom Blossom, in "May Biossoms." manager. During that period he married Miss Car
